

Wildlife can take advantage of features grown or created by people – climbing plants, shrubs with berries, gaps under roofs, compost heaps, nest boxes and garden ponds. These provide extra feeding opportunities or extra cover to shelter from the weather.

Along your route, can you spot areas that provide something extra for wildlife?

Box made as a home for birds

If you were a hedgehog, bat or dragonfly, which part of your route would you choose to live in? Why?

Can you think of ways in which part of your route might be made better for birds?

Discuss your thoughts with your walking companions.

Hedgehog in a compost heap